The University of New Mexico General Libraries have a very extensive collection of materials on microform. Among these materials are many large sets of archives, manuscripts, documents, books, periodicals, plays, music scores, etc. While the items in some of these large collections are separately listed in the card catalog, many others are listed only by the name and subject of the complete set.

This guide describes the contents and the indexing of the collections. When available the following information has been included: description, format, publisher, call number, review, indexes, and card catalog entry. The guide is arranged alphabetically by the title of the collection with indexes by subject and by personal name. The name index includes compilers, editors, authors, alternative names of some sets, and some secondary collections included in larger sets.

The guide only concerns the collections that are on microform. The University of New Mexico General Libraries have extensive collections of monographs, periodicals, and government documents on microform, and of archives that are not on microform; these are not described in this guide.
